TG MANUFACTURING ACQUIRES AIM INDUSTRIES

Grand Rapids, MI –Western Michigan-based TG Manufacturing, a division of Tiger Industrial Systems, today announced it has acquired AIM Industries in Grand Haven, MI.

AIM Industries has been in the metal stamping, CNC machining, robotic welding and tool manufacture business for 25 years. Housed in a 41,000 square foot manufacturing facility, the company currently supplies a diverse base of industrial sectors.

TG Manufacturing President Rich Achtenberg said he looks forward to expanding on AIM Industries' existing diverse customer base and processes.

“AIM Industries is a good synergistic fit with TG Manufacturing operations, including stamping, machining, and assembly,” Achtenberg said. “This acquisition represents an important opportunity for us to expand in the U.S. market and we believe we are well-positioned to grow our market share in several new industrial spaces.”

Utilizing TG Manufacturing's global network, advanced manufacturing technology and quality systems and integrating them into AIM Industries' process knowledge and superior delivery will result in a stronger organization.

Executive leadership teams from both companies have collaborated on a plan for the strategic integration of the companies' products and employees. Employees of AIM Industries will work to carry forward the reputation for cost, quality, and delivery that AIM Industries has established, Achtenberg said.
